

I am stronly opposed to this ruling being changed. Banks and other sales businesses should not have the right to impose themselves on me and my family at all hours of the day and night. Before this rule was passed, we received frequent calls during dinner and many after we were in bed due to time differences and such. If I want their services, I will call them.